Ken Browne Productions

Film Producer and Director

Ken Browne Productions (KBP) is a full-service video production company located in New York City, specializing in media communication products for educators, training and development, industry and sporting institutions. KBP offers professional grade video communications to organizations that need instructional and promotional products. The firm's resume draws on its broad range of client experience in documentary, sports TV and corporate communications to deliver programs that provide order, create awareness and touch hearts.

Roscoe Orman

Narrator and Artistic Director

Roscoe Orman has an extensive resume of film and television credits. A popular and requested studio artist, his narration on a prestigious body of documentary films is featured on major television networks. Recognized as a leading personality in educational television, he has opened up new ways to educate the public by "voicing over" numerous audio book biographies of luminaries who have changed history. Orman is recognized by tens of millions of parents as a trusted source of guidance and advice. In his 36th year as "Gordon of Sesame Street" he has become a role model and touchstone for a generation of young parents.
